Ag fair has most people ever

By Stuart Adams
Over 600 people attended the Drayton Valley and District Agricultural Society's exhibit last Saturday at the curling rink. Approximately 1,500 exhibits were on display in almost 400 exposures to make the show the biggest in the history of the fair.
Rockey vice-president and inside exhibit, co-ordinator for the show, Olga Brown, expressed her pleasure with the number of entries. "Many farmers time is being devoted to baking and handicrafts," she said.
She felt the present economic difficulties are moving people back to the basics of raising more of their own food. "It's gratifying to see," she said.
"We've had a significant increase in the number of entries in the culinary arts and fruits and vegetables categories," she added.
A family awards evening and social get-together will take place on Sept. 11 for the presentation of the prizes from the show. The event will be held in the Rocky Rapids Hall at 7 p.m. and include a pot luck supper.

Money from the admission price and grants from Alberta Agriculture will be used to cover the rest and the awards.

Drayton has chance for timber

By Monica Dick

Drayton Valley has a chance to secure jobs and facilities from two major companies planning pulp and paper mills within the Braemar Timber Development Area—but the economy and other factors could combine to delay any developments until the late 1980s.

Alco-Northwood Forest Products of Calgary, and the Maple Pulp and Paper Co. from Inlet, B.C. have presented multi-million dollar proposals to 252 people at the local public hearings for timber allocations from the Norberg and O'Chase blocks. Company representatives said timing for their Drayton Valley developments would hinge on market conditions in the forest industry and timber allocations granted by the provincial government.

The largest proposal from Alco-Northwood calls for a $775 million expenditure, with $40 million set to construct a water-based mill at Drayton Valley. Alco Ltd. vice-president Ray Hoffman said the facility would employ 150 people, with the town also to receive some employment from the 250 jobs available in proposed forest management operations.

A sawmill, three pulp mills and up to three paper mills would be located at Rocky Mountain House, to provide employment for 1,500 people.

Maple plans to spend $110 million to construct a chemical-based pulp mill at one of six locations and company spokesman Dick Ireland said options are being kept open for a second phase development to include a sawmill and second paper machines.

Construction on the project would employ 200 people, with phase one to provide another 500 and 80 seasonal jobs. Phase two would employ 500 people and another 80 seasonal workers.

Council votes to build pool

Last Thursday's meeting of Drayton Valley Town Council was highlighted by three resolutions concerning the construction of an indoor swimming pool in the town.

The motions came from recommendations by the town's committees of the whole and were presented by councillor Alex Ball.

The first motion asked for town council to move to build a swimming pool for the town. Council passed the resolution unanimously.

Councillor Ball's next motion was to inform the public in the "not too distant future" that they will be asked by publicists as to what type of pool they want, and how much they are willing to spend.

This was met with opposition by councillor Jim Wolff. "I feel very strongly that we, as council members, are in a position to make the decision," he said.

Councillor Wolff went on to say that council has the information to make the decision and has been discussing it for some length of time. He also said the public always has the option to call for a plebiscite on the issue if it wants it.

Acting mayor Charlie Mager disagreed. "We've consulted the town to a lot and I think it's necessary that residents must be approached in a plebiscite," he said.

"The question, the wording and the information will all be very important," Council passed the motion with councillors Ball, Rapp and acting mayor Mager in favour and councillor Wolff opposed. The other members of council were on holidays or not in town as indicated.

The third resolution calling for a draft of the pool feasibility study to be made public with an explanation that the figures are for comparison only was passed 6-1 unanimously. Later in the meeting councillor Ball informed council of donations received for the pool. That Engineering Associates pledged $1,000, Auden Oil $250, IGO Canadian $300 and Drayton Mechanical $25. "I'm quite happy with the progress on this," said Mr. Ball.

TANIA SWEET jumps for joy over council's decision to build a swimming pool.

Local brief impressive Society refused

By Suzanne Greenley

County of Parkland council refused a request for a meeting with the Lodgepole Mountain Historical Society at an Aug. 19 meeting in Banff. The request was refused because council has never funded those projects in the past.

He added that this was the first time council had received a request from the Lodgepole Mountain Historical Society.

The society requested the money to help pay for financing of a Lodgepole history book. At present, the society has about approximately 400 of the books in the Drayton Valley-Lodgepole area, and Historical Society editor Edith Erickson.

Mr. Erickson went on to say that the book is sponsored by the Lodgepole recreation board. However, because of the size of the community, it is difficult to raise enough money to pay for the book. She added that the society has had to finance the book with their Alberta Culture grant money through. Although the sales are slow to

Teachers take courses

Workshops on student learning, media communication and teacher welfare were but a few of the programs offered at the 34th annual conference of Alberta teachers.

Ten County of Parkland teachers attended the conference which ran from Aug. 16 to 20 in Lethbridge. The teachers who were at the conference attended lectures on a variety of subjects, and participated. Agnes Demerys went on to say that these lectures included exercises in media communication, media formation and leadership and teacher welfare programs. There was also a course called the Madeline Hunter Workshop which dealt with psychological theory for use in the classroom. This program has been designed

Premier to visit

Premier Peter Lougheed will be speaking at a luncheon hosted by the Town of Drayton Valley on Sept. 8.

"We're going to have a noon luncheon at the Royal Canadian Legion," said town council representative Charlie Meier.

Premier Lougheed's secretary Ron Lapert expected the premier's speech to be general, although he felt the current economic situation would be brought up. Mr. Lapert said there will be a question and answer session following the speech and the premier will be looking forward to learning the feelings of Drayton Valley area residents.

"It's been some time since he's been there and he was glad to accept," said Mr. Lapert.

Mayor Bob Mayhew and local M.L.A. Shirley Cripps have been working some time to arrange a visit by Premier Lougheed.

Tickets to the luncheon are $5 and are available to all residents of the town and surrounding areas. They may be purchased at the town office.

Government should answer questions

Concerns heard at last week's timber development hearings over possible contamination of the North Saskatchewan River by a proposed pulp mill are closely related to concerns over the placement of a hazardous wastes treatment plant.

Statements by the plant's manager for Edmonton Water and Sanitation indicated a million. The money would be needed for a facility to treat water which may be contaminated by pulp mills built in either Drayton Valley or Rocky Mountain House.

These suspicions were echoed by the director of standards and approvals for Alberta Environment.

Officials of the two major proponents for a mill feel they can operate a safe facility. While the need for caution where our environment is concerned cannot be stressed enough, why isn't Alberta Environment capable of deciding whether or not such a facility would be safe?

At the same time as the hearings were taking place in Drayton Valley, the citizens of Ryley held a plebiscite. They responded emphatically to assurances by Alberta Environment that a hazardous wastes disposal plant would be safe for their area. Seventy-eight per cent of an almost 95 per cent voter turn-out was in favor of siting the plant on land to be annexed into the town.

The question is, how can Alberta Environment be confident enough to place a waste disposal plant which would handle 100 thousand tons of wastes a year in a town, but be unsure about the safety of a pulp mill?

The variety of chemicals to be handled by the waste disposal plant present many more problems than those produced by a pulp mill. Though its studies on the treatment of hazardous wastes throughout the world, Alberta Environment should have the expertise to decide on the safety of the mill.

Yet, a lack of information jeopardizes a much-needed facility for Drayton Valley.

We need some form of economic diversification and a pulp mill would solve that problem. Questions over the safety of such a facility only damage our chances.

What we need are answers and Alberta Environment should be able to provide them.

Council needs town's support

County Council's rejection of funds for a swimming pool for Drayton Valley does not mean the issue is dead. Members of the town council were well aware of the county's decision before they made their resolutions at the last town council meeting.

Their actions demonstrate their willingness to do all they can to build a swimming pool for this town.

A facility of this size will require the support of the townspeople to be built, both financially and in the pursuit of government funding. Just because the county council has rebuffed the first request for a grant doesn't mean the people should give up.

What Drayton Valley residents must do is encourage their town councillors to pursue all options.

The final word will be spoken by the people of this town through a plebiscite. The choices which will be available will be determined by the town's elected representatives.

Is Pierre Trudeau a sore loser?

The recent suggested closure of the Banff-Jasper highway for the winter follows closely Joe Clark's drubbing of Donald MacDonald in a hypothetical election.

Early last month Clark was pitted against MacDonald as prime ministerial candidates in a Gallup poll and he came out on top by a 36 to 20 per cent margin. Maybe the spread was a little too much for the Liberals to swallow.

Within the month Parks Canada had announced the probable closing of the highway—in Clark's home riding of Yellowhead. Last we forget, there was also the closing of the Via Rail service through Jasper.

Sour grapes, perhaps? If that's the case then it wouldn't be unfair for Clark to turn Pierre Trudeau's Outremont riding into a parking lot if the Conservatives win the next election.

Perspectives

by Roxanne Greenley

It was a typical Wednesday afternoon, quiet with not too much happening. The day seemed to be proceeding in its usual fashion with everyone recovering from last week's paper and getting ready to start the new one.

With this in mind the editorial department had a brief meeting to discuss its plans for the next week and decide what the content of the newspaper would be.

After discussing the various news and sports events which had to be covered, the over-enthusiastic Perspectives column suddenly made its presence felt.

"You have on ideas already for Perspectives?" asked the editor with a pointed look in my direction.

"When I replied that I didn't, he said that he had an idea. It was almost as if the light bulb lit up over his head."

Now when flashing news lights start going on and off in the editor's office something has to be up. The first time that occurred was around April Fool's Day when the editor was flipping up pages to play on one of the reporters.

So it was with severe enquiring that I awaited his opening revelation. "Victims of a thousand different thoughts, much worse than the previous one, danced through my head."

"Why don't you write a column on getting married?" asked the editor.

"Oh, make it humorous," he added. "I was not too impressed with the idea. However, both he and the other reporter thought it was a wonderful idea."

It was only after much persuasion that I agreed to write it. However, what do you write about?

Nothing that unusual or humorous has happened.

So far it has consisted of the usual wedding preparations—choosing invitations, flowers, hall, etc. for the wedding party.

mean every wedding follows a similar format; such seems to have a slight twist which can be a problem even.

This can be anything from finding a last minute photographer to losing the rings or even having to deal with a provincial government official.

The last is the one which is currently the biggest worry which we have to contend with as the wedding is set for B.C., a province which is currently undergoing a reorganizing of provincial employees.

It always is something to worry about but then it wouldn't be any fun if there wasn't something to worry about. A typical wedding always seems to have a rather hitch somewhere in the works, a hitch which always gets ironed out in the end.

Season winding down in local men's soccer loop

Playoffs Set
With the season winding down in the Central Alberta Rural Towns Soccer League (CARTSL), Drayton Valley Casars are gearing up for a run at the post-season championship. All five CARTSL teams will take part in the playoff round set for Drayton Valley's West Valley Park on Sept. 25.

Rides finishing fourth and fifth place at the end of the regular season will face each other to decide who will meet the first place team in a semi-final match. The other semifinal will see the second and third place clubs play off, with the two winners meeting in the championship final.

A win-up bracket and draws will be held later in the day at the West Valley Soccer Inn. Ticket information can be obtained by calling Chris Kelly at 542-8914, or Steve Kelly at 542-7148.

Reverend Leader
Julian Asanicharic of Whitecourt leads the scoring parade in the CARTSL with an impressive nine goals in six starts. Ronny Pula's Wild Horses is the second place, after he hit for two markers against Mayersburg on Sunday to bring his total to five. Danny Howers of Casars dropped back in the scoring race after he had his goals against Wataskie knocked. Wataskie was suspended from league play earlier in the season.

New pool faces setback

By Stuart Adams
Drayton Valley's bid for a new swimming pool received a setback at the Aug. 19 council of the County of Parkland meeting. But two Drayton Valley town councillors are looking forward to denying the situation at a meeting between town council and the county council on Sept. 9.

At the county council meeting a motion by First Vice town council representative was defeated. He had moved that a recommendation be made to the county council that a new pool be accepted to cost $200,000 to be added to the capital costs of a swimming pool for Drayton Valley.

"I thought it was going to go through," said councillor York about his motion in a subsequent interview. He added he had also made the motion because talking to the public would have meant a delay to the pool's funding schedule.

One of the problems he saw in the presentation of the motion during was the most expensive of proposals was presented. "We really had no other alternative," he said.

"My own feeling is that we were too hasty in dealing with the issue."

"We should have had demonstration on all the proposals before it came to council and this is why I feel it was dealt with too hastily."

Councillor York also said the yearly operational costs of $200,000 would be too high for the town and the county to look after. "Maybe if the operational costs were reduced then council would be more in favor of allocating funds," he said.

Pool hijinks draw big crowd

It was cold, but the grandstands were full and spectators lined the fence at the Drayton Valley Swimming Pool's season wind-up last Wednesday. They called it the Wild and Wet Water Day and the same night described the pool hijinks.

With the pool closed on Aug. 29 the staff of 11 full-timers, and the Neptune Swim Club, carried on with acts and demonstrations of swimming and diving. But the highlight of the show was the canoe race.

The canoe entry won the event, and second was the Fire Department team, followed by the RCMP 2 squad.

The race covered two lengths of the pool in a canoe by each of the three teams.

As part of their equipment each team had a bucket with a number of objects in it which they had to have when they finished the race.

The difficult part of the race for some of the teams was doing the second lap after filling their canoe with water.

up this year and the distribution of the increase in a lot of new and different ideas which got the adults into swimming as well as the kids.

"We had good turnout for which the swimmer and the Masters Swim Club was formed," she said.

Pool thanks

Dear Father:
As two families in this community we feel compelled to express our appreciation to Debbie Rigby and the staff at the Drayton Valley swimming pool for the excellent manner in which the facility has been operated.

The variety of programs and special activities in addition with community events have been fun and entertaining. The staff has been open and responsive to suggestions from the public. Generally the hours of operation have been taught with a great deal of enthusiasm and a high level of proficiency and knowledge.

Please do not outline this letter with a "yawn" for an indoor facility but rather as a letter acknowledging a job well done.

Thank you,
The Hall family

New pool faces setback...

The county would be spending $1.1 million and require $48,319 from the county for yearly operational costs.

The other would be similar to the $2.5 million pool, but would include only a 25-meter pool with the other additional $1 million, with $1,500 as the county's share for yearly operation.

Facilities committee chairman and town councillor Alex Sault was surprised by county council's outright decision to withhold grant money. "I would have hoped they would have tabled the motion for further study before giving a 'no'," he said.

"Now we have to start the whole process over again. We definitely going to bring the matter up at the September 9 meeting to find out whether or not they support the pool."

Councillor Sault said he also feels the county should spend more money in this area because "we have been asked overworked."

While it might not have done much for Jenny, that song was the best of Tommy Tune's musical career. And with the album's success, he doesn't have to hang around waitrooms checking out the walls anymore.

What's the rest of the album like, you may ask. After all, all you ever hear of him on the radio is 887-5200-Jenny. Well, surprisingly enough, much of the other material is fairly decent. Tommy isn't big on the lyrics, but he does have a catchy sound.

The voice has a deep, husky quality which is least surprising but from some of the many other artists who captivate an audience love songs.

Gym club needs coaches

The Drayton Valley, Gymnasium Club is looking for people to help coach for its 1982-83 season.

At present, coaches are needed at all levels of expertise from beginners to pre-competitive, and club executive Myra Boucher. "You don't have to be an expert gymnast to coach, just eager to help," said Mrs. Boucher.

She added that the gymnastics club will take any applications for coaching positions. All the coaches work on a strictly volunteer basis, said Mrs. Boucher. She went on to say that in addition to gymnastic coaches, the club is also hoping to find someone who is interested in choreography instruction.

At present, the schedule for the season remains such the same as previous years. Classes are open for students aged six to 15 years. However, the majority of the students are in high school or high school, said Mrs. Boucher. Registration for classes is on Sept. 21 at the Blue Fox and students must pay a $45 fee for 24 lessons in the beginners to blue badge classes or a $60 fee for pre-competitive classes. Lessons will begin on Sept. 21 and 30 for beginner, red, white and blue badges as well as pre-competitive levels with merit, bronze, silver and gold badges.

Garbage troubles council

By Stuart Adams

Drayton Valley Town council met on Aug. 18 with three members absent due to pressing business or holidays. Deputy mayor Charlie Miner acted as mayor and councillors present were Bob Bush, Alex Sault and Jim Wolff.

Council rejected a request by the County of Parkland to be exempted from building permit charges for opening additions to French Meadow High and H.W. Pickay Junior High.

Councillor Jim Wolff moved a letter be sent to the county indicating the setback procedure for building and development permit fees for other municipal or government construction and they will be substantiated. The motion was passed unanimously.

Councillor Wolff also moved either government permits be reviewed by the Municipal Planning Committee.

The subject of garbage pick-up was introduced and councillor Alex Sault and acting mayor Charlie Miner made a number of complaints that have received over garbage pick-up.

"The main problem I'm getting is our garbage contractor wasn't pick up more than three bags," said Mr. Sault.

"They also won't pick up more than three feet inside the property line."

Mr. Miner said he had received the same complaints and added the town staff has received them as well.

Mr. Sault moved that the situation be reviewed by the Transportation Committee, which was passed.

Also referred to the Transportation Committee was the dividing motion on 8th Ave. inside the ALCO outlet. Council expressed concern over the motion as a driving hazard and passed a resolution to have the committee look into the matter.

Council acted on letters of complaint over the job-use operation of the fire fleet and the fact that the contractors need more supplies.

Mr. Sault said he would report back to council from the Joint City Management Committee of which he is a member so solutions to the problems.

Congratulations and best wishes go to Mr. and Mrs. Duane Whalen, and Jean Duane, who were married at the Drayton Valley United Church on July 31. The tour continued on to the Redford and Putnam Ranch of Drayton Valley where a roast beef dinner was served and many more cattle were on display. Congratulations go to Nick and Shirley Cherrington of Bowden on the birth of a baby girl on Aug. 13. Laura's little sister has been named Jennifer Lee.

MLA wants part of the O'Chiese block

By Martin Dick

Last MLA Shirley Cripps said she'd rather not see any of the O'Chiese timber allocated by the provincial government, unless the forestry department is willing to make a definite commitment to build a facility in this vicinity. "It's the status she's taking in the current government process of deciding what timber allocations will be granted, following local presentations by seven interested leaders last week.

The decision is expected to come by the spring of 1983, and Mrs. Cripps said she will advocate the bid that will provide the most benefits for Drayton Valley and area.

"This will go hand-in-hand with protection of quotas for existing local timber operations, she said, in addition to an increase in those quotas where requested. If the province follows the example of its timber allocations in Fox Creek, she added, "the smaller operators' quotas were protected and the majority were offered an increase in quotas."

Protection of the smaller operators' interests was a major concern with locals presented at the Rocky Mountain House public hearing, she said, and comprised part of the first day's program at the local session.

Robert Schmidt, from Continental Lumber Ltd. of Leducville told the local hearing it was important for the government to remember the small operators. His company would support construction of a pulp mill in the area, he said, but it would also like to have its business interests protected to enable future growth.

The company presently employs 55 people but owns the Leducville sawmill and a facility at Cypress, Mr. Schmidt said, and it would like to pick up additional timber for expanding its working capacity by another 55 people.

"This employment is beneficial to the local economy for providing jobs and supporting businesses in Drayton Valley, he noted. "We don't want to see Drayton Valley our supplies—makes the most sense," he said.

Now west-central Alberta quota holders comprise Forest Resources Ltd. would also like to see development of the province's forest industry continue in their respective communities.

Provincial representative Clyde Cowie told the hearing the group would like to negotiate a Forest Management Agreement with the government, to operate as "a normal private oriented company completely at arm's length from all shareholder companies."

These businesses would contribute to the stability of the rural communities in this area of Leducville, Cypress, Whitford and Drayton Valley, he added.

Buck Lake fair a success

Buck Lake held its annual agricultural fair last Saturday with an impressive display of entries. The fair was put on by the Buck Lake Agricultural Society which drew on more than 18 volunteers to organize the event.

Over 500 entries were received from almost 70 entrants. A representative of the community services branch of Alberta Agriculture, Andy McPherson, attended the fair along with his wife.

"They have a terrific selection of local crafts," said Mr. McPherson. "We got out to a lot of fair and there are truly some talented people in this area."

He said his department works with the agriculture programs throughout the province and he probably attends about 20 fairs each summer. The fairs give the talented people in each area the chance to demonstrate their abilities," he said. "This encourages more careers and nationally involvement."

Merle Weber, president of the agricultural society, organized a sale of live and baked goods for the fair proceeds.

Babies boom at Ag Fair

By Stuart Adams

Babies, toddlers and more babies were entered in the Baby Contest at the Drayton Valley Agricultural Fair last Saturday. Exactly double the number of entries from last year's show were entered this year.

In all, 48 babies took part in the contest for children under one year old.

"We're pleased on announcing the show next year," said one of the contest organizers, Olga Brown. "We had many more entries than we expected," and "things were a little confused as a result."

Each child received a prize, donated by the Heddew's Toy Company, and a draw was held for the Baby Cup, which was won by Eric Buschman. There was also a draw for a car seat which was won by Eric Drenth.

Local racer going strong

By Chris Shandhu

Although he's often referred to by track announcers as "the little Mexican from Drayton Valley," Frank Nash stands tall in local chuckwagon racing circles.

Nash, along with Mary Ruppert and her son Hal, spends much of his spare time travelling to pony chariot and chuckwagon races across the province.

The first time Nash entered the sport after watching some races about four years ago, he liked what he saw, decided to try for himself, and is now an avid racer.

"It's just a good sport," commented Nash when asked about his main appeal. "It's a good thing for the family. They all get involved a little bit."

It's obvious he's in racing for the fun of competition, rather than for any financial considerations.

"If you're lucky you'll make gas money and enough to cover your entry fee," Nash commented.

Chuckwagon racing isn't without heartbreak, and at a recent meet in Grimsby, his lead horse broke its leg and had to be put down.

"That was hard on my wagon right there," Nash said with a bit of emotion. "I depended on that guy a lot."

While his rig failed to take top honors at the Lanesopend meet held in town on Sunday, Frank Nash did enjoy the speed with his colorful style.

Double-ring ceremony for Warburg couple

By Lois Dyck

July 31 at 2 p.m., St. Charles Catholic Church in Warburg was the scene of a double-ring ceremony when Marilyn Stephenson, second daughter of Art and Barbara Stephenson of Drayton, was married to Brian Modick, son of Cecil and Mary Modick of Warburg.

Father Pedersen performed the ceremony. Church readers were Henry Gruninger and Colleen Blaisinger. Steady Hahnel was organist. The church was decorated with fresh flowers and banners.

The bride was given in marriage by both her parents, and wore a full-length white gown made of two layers of polyester. The outer layer was light-weight and was unembroidered. The gown had pretty sleeves and a ruffle around the collar and the same as around the hem of the dress. The ruffle in the front and back was of white material. The gown also had a high neck, fitted wrist and lay between the back.

The bride wore a long white veil with edge to length with the dress was laid to show the neckline and flowers to match those in the bouquet. The bouquet was made up of roses and lily-of-the-valley, orchids, fern and baby's breath.

The bride chose as her maid of honor, Barbara Stephens, sister of the bride. He wore a black tuxedo with a white shirt and a white bow tie. The bride's mother chose for the occasion a short light blue dress with a high neck and short sleeves and a white blouse. Red Cross holds water safety clinic for swim club

By Leodol Lomas

Lynn Becker had surgery on her knee on Aug. 12. At last report she was home, in good spirits and doing well. We hope it will be successful this time.

A summer integrated recreation program held at Winfield consisted of 11 pupils on a regular basis and four parties.

The children ranged in age from four to 12 years and were transported from the Buck Lake Winfield and Yendowen schools to the Winfield Recreation Centre.

The children took part in field trips and other activities throughout the summer.

The program was sponsored by Alberta Recreation and the District. This financial assistance from the government was about $1,000. The other expenses such as transportation and materials were paid through donations from the following groups and individuals: the Winfield Agricultural Society, Caray Club, Buck Lake Agricultural Society, Caray Club, Buck Lake, West Country Ltd., Caray Club, Buck Lake, and Hartman's Grocery.

These donations were greatly appreciated by the program. Yendowen School, Shirley Jones and Heather Fisher were leaders in the program.

Mr. Terpin had the uniforms of Baby's Breath. He was wearing a yellow badge and a program card.

The program is developed for people of all ages, including safety awareness.

and ladies who helped put in plans, rope off the swimming area, print and distribute material and collect beach bottles.

On July 25 a Red Cross swim team gave a good demonstration at the beach. All enjoyed the advice of the Red Cross puppy beaver.

Joan Dingard visited the swim club, giving the executive and instructors valuable information on changes and new supplies and observing. Thanks to the ladies and Red Cross for their assistance.

July 28 was warm and sunny as the program finished with the swimmers and their families enjoying a pot luck picnic supper. They hope to see all again next year for more swimming fun.

COUNTY OF PARKLAND

NO. 31

MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD

In a matter of days summer holidays will be over for the ten thousand students that will be attending school in the County of Parkland. The Board of Education has found that providing information on the schools in the local newspapers before school opening has been very beneficial and useful for students and parents in the past. Our administrative staff have found this early communication to be valuable to them also.

It is our pleasure to again give you as much information as possible at this time for the 1982-83 school term. Every question you may have concerning the attendance of your children may not be answered in this supplement. Should children have further questions, the names of the principals and central office staff are listed for you. If you desire more information, it would be appreciated and most helpful to our staff if you would contact them soon.

The Board of Education is looking forward to providing the educational needs for the many students who are part of our educational system for another term.

On behalf of the Board of Education, it is an appropriate time to extend a special welcome to all new staff and students joining our system on September 7.

To all students and staff, we hope this coming school year will be one of personal advancement and achievement.

Everything our society is or hopes to be depends on what happens in the public school classrooms. Our schools have the responsibility of providing a good education for boys and girls regardless of race, religion, or socioeconomic background.

The Parkland schools are staffed with capable and caring teachers, and are well-equipped. A broad range of educational programs and opportunities is available to the students.

Among the major educational developments in the County this year are the following:

- The school system has launched a County-wide program of developing student literacy in microcomputers.
- Selected gifted students are receiving special attention in initial programs at Forest Grove in Stary Plain and Eldorado in Drayton Valley.
- The County will operate 14 Early Childhood Services Centres for kindergarten children and will provide bus service for the students on a one-way basis.
- The vocational program for high school students is expanding. Commencing this school year, a vocational program will commence at Material Composite. A vocational addition for Frank Meade is in the planning stages.
- General school classes are becoming very popular. A total of 140 students in grades four to nine voluntarily received extensive instruction in mathematics and language arts this summer, with Eldorado and Drayton Park serving as the centres.

The primary purpose of schools is educating youth. But the schools also serve the whole community. To an ever-increasing extent, the public schools are becoming centres of community activity. Adults are using school facilities after hours for adult education courses and recreation programs. Community organizations use classrooms for meeting places.

We are pleased to report that all students will be accommodated comfortably this September. The building program is right on schedule. New school buildings at Beatty and Knapville are ready to receive students. Classes will begin using the new Music Centres at Stary Plain Junior High School and a considerable portion of the new addition at Material Composite. Portable classrooms have been moved to several schools with growing enrolments.

The financial pinch is a concern to us all. Everywhere, costs of providing a modern education have been rising rapidly. An additional problem in our County is the debt load. About 35 per cent of the total cost of a new school, including the structure, furniture and equipment, and growth development, must be provided by local taxes. The province carries the other 65 per cent. When the building program is large, the debt load constitutes a very significant portion of the budget. We continue to make every effort to operate the school system as efficiently and economically as possible.

You are welcome at the schools in your neighbourhood. If you have any questions or would like more information, please contact your child's teacher, the principal or the Central Office. Let's get to know each other even better!

There are twenty-five Early Childhood Services programs operating within the County of Parkland throughout the year during the 1982-83 school year. Although the responsibility for operation of these programs varies (private Kindergarten Societies, County of Parkland Board of Education, Separate School Boards) it must be noted that all twenty-five centers meet provincial Early Childhood requirements, are staffed with qualified E.C.S. teachers, are housed in approved facilities and ensure high levels of parent and community involvement.

To be eligible for an E.C.S. program during the 1982-83 school year, a child must be five years of age before March 1, 1983.

The name, location, operator status and days/times of classes of all Early Childhood programs in the region are listed below. More detailed information, including contact for registration, can be acquired through the office of Mr. Brian Clark, E.C.S. Director for the County of Parkland, at 943-2231 (extension 249).
